

Copyright, Commons and the Struggle to Control Culture

a panel discussion

David Bollier - Independent policy strategist, journalist, activist and consultant whose work focuses on reclaiming the commons, the effects of digital technology on democratic culture, and fighting the excesses of intellectual property law.

Brad Lichtenstein - Award-winning documentary filmmaker, president of 371 Productions. Brad is currently producing What We Got: DJ Spooky's Journey Through the Commons and a PBS documentary that will follow the people of Janesville, WI as they try to recover from the loss of their century-old General Motors plant.

Nancy Kranich - Past President of the American Library Association, lecturer and special projects librarian at Rutgers University, who teaches and writes about the commons, democracy, civic engagement, and information policy.

presented by

supported by

Copyright, Commons and the Struggle to Control Culture

a panel discussion

David Bollier - Independent policy strategist, journalist, activist and consultant whose work focuses on reclaiming the commons, the effects of digital technology on democratic culture, and fighting the excesses of intellectual property law.

Brad Lichtenstein - Award-winning documentary filmmaker, president of 371 Productions. Brad is currently producing What We Got: DJ Spooky's Journey Through the Commons and a PBS documentary that will follow the people of Janesville, WI as they try to recover from the loss of their century-old General Motors plant.

Nancy Kranich - Past President of the American Library Association, lecturer and special projects librarian at Rutgers University, who teaches and writes about the commons, democracy, civic engagement, and information policy.

presented by

supported by

